The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claims 1-3,5-7,10-13 and 22-24 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Lankton.

Figures 1-4 show structure as claimed, including a chair having a contoured upper edge portion. The back includes a central portion and lateral filler portions, and is formed to recline rearwardly.

While the shape of the upper edge of the Lankton backrest may be generally construed to resemble a naturally occurring formation, the particular shape of the upper edge is considered a matter of design choice, and serves no utility other than general aesthetic purposes. Such limitations are given little patentable weight in article claims, and would be more suited to a design application.

Applicant's arguments filed Feb. 16, 2007 have been fully considered but they are not persuasive.

As set forth in the above rejection, the particular shape of the upper edge of the backrest is considered a matter of design choice. The contouring of the upper edge of the back offers no mechanical advantage, no physical benefit to the user, and no patentable utility that would be required for a mechanical patent. As suggested previously, this application would be more suited to a design patent rather than a mechanical patent as the invention lies solely with the aesthetic design and shape of an upper edge of the backrest.

THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the mailing date of this final action.
